Craft Kids: Civil Rights and the Dallas NAACP Youth Council 7:00- 8:00 p.m.

In the 1940s, legendary civil rights activist Juanita Craft helped organize the Dallas NAACP Youth Council with the goal of training the next generation of NAACP leaders. The council would grow to become the model for youth organizations in NAACP chapters around the country. The "Craft Kids," as the group that worked under Craft came to be known, organized and participated in peaceful demonstrations against racial segregation and discrimination. In this discussion, former Craft Kids share firsthand accounts of their journeys into civil rights activism and their experiences working with Juanita Craft.

Conclusion and Evaluations: 8:00 - 8:15 p.m.
